More money than ever is on the table for Virginia's farmers. Your Soil and Water Conservation District wants to help you get your share.

Farmers can receive up to $300,000 in Virginia Agricultural Cost-Share funds for practices that protect water quality, enrich the land — and boost the farm's bottom line.

VACS offers support for more than 60 Best Management Practices, including:

- Rotational Grazing
- Cover Crops
- Split Nitrogen Application
- Nutrient Management
- Alternative Water Sources
- Conservation Tillage
- Stream Fencing
- Buffers
